

Results from the Volunteer Pulse Survey Q4 25/26

Thank you to everyone who took part in our Volunteer Pulse Survey. Your feedback continues to be invaluable in helping us improve the volunteer experience across the Trust.

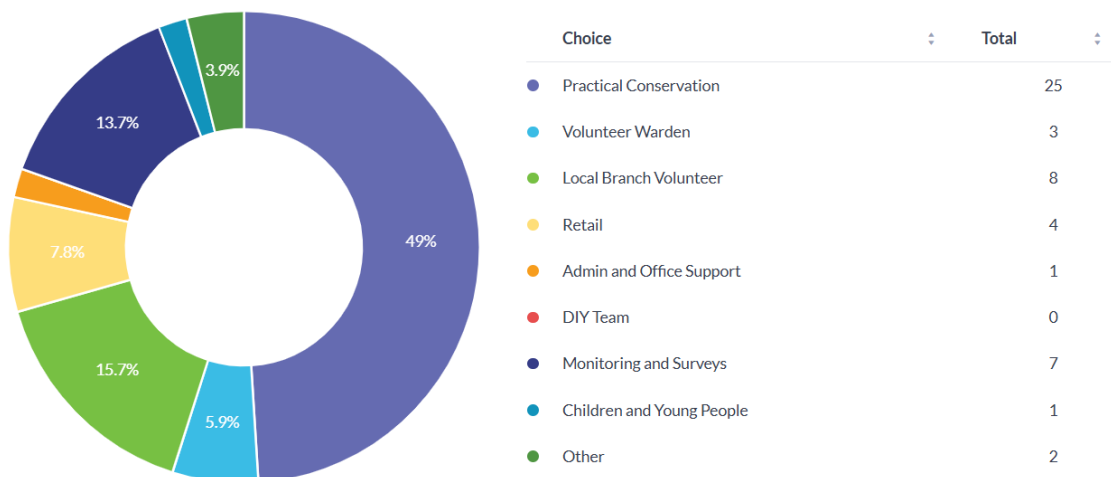

Overall, responses were very positive, with volunteers highlighting strong levels of satisfaction and a clear sense of purpose in supporting our work. Many respondents shared that they feel valued and connected through their roles. The support from staff and fellow volunteers was also recognised as a key strength.

The survey also provided helpful insights into areas where we can continue to improve. The majority of respondents felt that there wasn't anything they could think of that needing improvement, with a few noting that better tools and equipment and some additional training would be beneficial.

We are committed to listening and responding to your feedback, and we will continue working to enhance the volunteer experience for everyone. It was pleasing to see that 93.3% of respondents felt they would still be volunteering with us in 6 months' time.

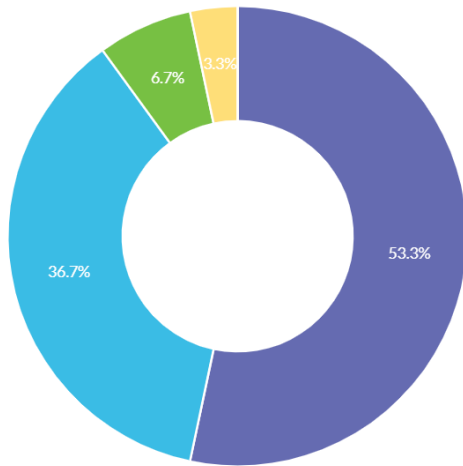

Thank you again to all who completed the survey and for the time and commitment you bring to supporting wildlife in Herefordshire. Your contribution makes a real difference.
